(ON 2A/3)

DOCTOR: We can't move back to the ship just yet. You know how fast c cats can move. And we could be mistaken for mice. I don't fancy being part of the cat's diet; it might upset my digestion!

IAN: And yet it's a sort of protection, in a way, isn't it?

SUSAN: That thing? A protection!

IAN: From birds.

(SLIGHT PAUSE WHILE THEY THINK ABOUT IAN'S REMARK)

4. 4 - A -24 2S SUSAN/DR. BARBARA: It becomes more horrifying every moment. /

SUSAN: Can't we make contact with the human beings here?

DOCTOR: No, I'm afraid not.

SUSAN: But why not, Grandfather? Couldn't we get them to help us in some way.

DOCTOR: It's out of the question. How could we possibly communicate with them!

5. 2 - 16 2S BARB/IAN

IAN: Imagine playing a record at the wrong speed. Our voices would sound like a little squeak and they would sound like a low growl.

BARBARA: And anyway, even if we could communicate - what would they do to us? We're freaks.
We'd be put into a little glass case and examined through microscopes.

6. 4 2S SUSAN/DR. SUCAM: Yes, that's a thought I suppose.

(and more DOCTOR: There's even a third important objection. The people who live in this house are nurderers. Or one of them is. We can't expect much understanding or sympathy from an insane or a criminal mind.

SUSAN: What about this dead

G.U. BARB.

BARBARA: Ought we to do something about it?

8. 4 2S SUSAN/DR.

DOCTOR: Responsibility isn't diminished with size, I agree. But can we do anything, surely this is the question. Normally, I wouldn't hesitate. The destruction of the life force is frightful... but my dear, you see how it is? We're helpless as we are.

(BARBARA NODS. 2 - 35 SLIGHT PAUSE)

9. 2 - 35 4S SUSAN/DR/BARB/IAN

IAN: At least, I can't see that cat anywhere. However much safety that gives us.

DCCTOR: Then shall we proceed. The route is that way.

FORESTER: You're very detached about it.

MOVES FWD

Last year's work, that's what it means. And if that sounds callous, it is. Farrow was pushed on to me and he was a nuisance and a fool. Always checking every minor detail. I've worked fifteen, sometimes sixteen hours a day, every day on the experiment.

FORESTER: Yes, I know.

(ON 1A/12)

FORESTER: Not necessarily.

(SMITHE'S LOOKS UP AT FORESTER SLOWLY)

FORESTER: Farrow was going on holiday. He has a boat. He was going to cross over to France by himself in it. It's anchored about ten miles away.

SMITHERS: Yes. I know.

FORESTER: If the pplice found an overturned boat and a body out at sea somewhere.

SMITHERS: But ...

FORESTER: You can leave it all to me. I will tow an outboard with me... come back in that ...

SMITHERS: That's your business. I don't want to know anything about it.

FORESTER: You say all I want out of the experiment is money. But you want something too, don't you? You want to see it finished. Be known as the inventor of it. If the truth came out about Farrow you can say goodbye to all that.

2 - B - 9 BCU SMITHERS

SMITHERS: The Experiment must go through. It's too important. I don't matter - you don't matter.. he doesn't matter. Not when we can produce something that'll save people from dying of starvation. That's what I care about, Forester.

IAN: Well we must be inside Barbara. That's a ceiling not the sky, and Susan and the Doctor are outside. How's your ankle?

BARBARA: Oh, that's nothing. I bumped my knee against a large piece of metal.

IAN: There were all sorts of things flying about. We were lucky.

BARBARA: Do you know what it was that hit me, though. I mean ... it's ridiculous ... just maming it. A paper clip!

SUSAN: You're not thinking of climbing up the inside of it are you?

DOCTOR: Yes, my dear. Yes.
There's no other way. If you have a look you'll see it is corroded so t there will be hand and footholds.
The smell of disinfectants means it's germ free too.

SUSAN: It's too far you you.

DOCTOR: If it is, I shall have to give it up. But I'll never give up until I've tried. And besides, think of the other two, Susan. They must be constantly reminding themselves they are only one inch high and we are the only ones who can help them.

Our eardrums are too small to register the vibrations of normal human speech. The only bounds we can hear are the very high sitched ones. Even the letter 's would sound like a roll of drums to us.
